FIFTEEN CENTS

Antioch's cops busy

According to Antioch Police Chief Chuck Miller, law enforcement in Antioch has been at an all time high, at least since Miller has been on the force.

Police action for the last month includes the issuance of 136 traffic tickets, 37 DUI arrests, 36 juvenile apprehensions and 72 other arrests.

Under other arrests comes theft, shoplifting, deceptive practices, murder, disorderly conduct, etc.

Normally, the police department makes an average of 18 and 20 of these arrests in a month's time.

When it comes to drinking-driving arrests, before the teen border crossing traffic started in 1980, this many DUI's was an entire year's quota.

Miller said that 16 of these arrests came after the drinking age in Wisconsin went up to 19 on July 1. Since this is a higher number of DUI's than usual, the indication seems to be that the 19-year-old Wisconsin drinking raise may not help the border traffic problem.

Miller added that these arrests took 3,000 police hours, 290 hours of police overtime.

"An officer should be busy one-third of the time and patrolling or looking for trouble two-thirds of the time," Miller said.

"Because of all this action, our officers were busy 50 percent of the time and people will begin complaining about not seeing a squad car patrolling their area," Miller added.

Miller enumerated the many happenings of the last four weeks that kept his officer on their toes: the firemen's dance and the DUI border block, the Fourth of July celebration, the Art Fair, the rise in shoplifting and last week's murder.

A question this might propose is whether or not Antioch needs another policeman or two to keep up its high standard of protection.

Chamber adds carnival to Maxwell St. Days

According to Antioch Chamber of Commerce Retail Chairman Larry Hanson, the Chamber wants to promote heavy merchandising traffic in Antioch and, to assist, the Chamber will sponsor a mini-carnival at the Water Tower for three consecutive days (Thursday, Friday and Saturday during normal business hours) on Aug. 2, 3 and 4 during Maxwell St. Days.

There will be three rides for the kiddies (giant slide, moon walk, river ride) and an adult ride (Octopus). A great way to move the customers around will be available through the mini-train which will run through town carrying 20 people. The conductor will have a map of the town and will be letting people off at various stops. The entire train ride will last six to seven minutes.

Tickets will be sold for these rides and volunteers are needed to work the ticket booth, even if only an hour can be given. Volunteers can call Hanson at (312) 395-6212.

In addition to these attractions, a balloon launch will be held on Saturday at 2 p.m. in McDonald's parking lot (they will be furnishing free cookies and drinks).

Tickets for the balloon launch will be handled by individual retailers, if desired. Meta's Candies and McDonalds have already agreed to pass out balloon tickets at their stores. Please contact Hanson if anyone is interested in passing out these tickets.

Special rates have been negotiated for the rental of awnings by Sunshade Tent Rental. Awnings will be advantageous for several reasons. Most importantly it will shade the customers from the sun (remember last year and the 95 degree weather). Paying customers will stay longer is there is shade. Also, awnings will designate the retailers as being a MAXWELL STREET DAYS participant by utilizing a uniform symbol. They look great and are functional.

The Chamber intends to make this a super retailing community event! It is looking forward to many more events to help promote Antioch as everyone's total shopping community.

Coming up on the following Sunday, August 5, the Lions Club is holding its annual barbeque and the Chamber is firming up plans for a 21 Hour Sale before school starts.

Prather, Humphreys make all-star team

Antioch's varsity baseball team finished second in the North Suburban Conference with a record of 18-8. Warren took the conference championship with a 19-4 record.

Antioch has two of its team members on the Waukegan-News Sun's 1984 All-County Prep Baseball Team.

Craig Prather made that team for the second time. Prather, who was all-county last season, was a senior third baseman who batted .309 and scored 29 runs. He will attend Iowa State University on a baseball scholarship.

John Humphreys also made that top team. He was a senior pitcher who batted .365, had a record of 9-3 with 58 strikeouts. He was voted Antioch's most valuable baseball player.

Summerfest July 28

Everyone is invited to attend St. Peter's Church fourth annual summerfest (fun for the entire family), on Saturday, July 28, starting at 6:30 p.m.

There will be plenty of good food and drink, home-made pastries, kids games and movies, clowns, dunk tank, and games. For the first time "Footlights" t-shirts will be available for purchase.

Country and western music by the "Tom Sittler Band" will be played from 6:30 to 8 p.m., followed by "Smile" a 50's and 60's rock and roll band, which has played at "Footlights" and Carmel High Schools, "Street Scenes," from 8 p.m. until midnight.

There is no admission charge. Plan to attend with family, friends, and neighbors.

2 more bite cleanup dust

Questions being asked by the man on Antioch's streets: "What happened to Jesse Swallow and Frank Marotta?"

Both have disappeared from the local streets. Federal authorities will say that Marotta has been sent to federal prison in connection with drug convictions out of New Orleans and Alabama.

Law enforcement agencies will also confirm that Swallow is doing hard time for the same thing in connection with prior drug convictions but no one is being specific as to what, why and when or where and whether or not there is any connection with the grand jury drug indictments of last week.

Safe boating habits can reduce accidents

Boating is supposed to be fun, and for most people it is. But every year hundreds die in boating accidents, and many more are injured.

The tragedy of these grim statistics, according to Larry Closson, Dept. of Conservation, (DOC) Division of Law Enforcement chief, is that nearly all boating accidents can be prevented.

Coast Guard statistics show that most boating fatalities are caused by capsizings and falls overboard, Closson said.

MOST INJURIES and much of the millions of dollars in property damage are caused by boating accidents from fires and explosions.

"Capsizings and falls overboard account for about 65 percent of all boating accident deaths," Closson said.

"Of all boating fatalities in the nation, about 88 percent listed drowning as the cause of death, and 75 percent of those who die did not wear a personal flotation device (PFD) or life jacket. In other words, boating fatalities could be reduced by 75 percent if people would wear a Coast Guard-approved PFD whenever they're on the water. Since the law requires a PFD for each person on board, the obvious moral of this story is that a PFD must be worn to do any good," he added.

Illinois has been lucky in that it has experienced a slight decline in the number of boating fatalities. Only 17 persons drowned as a result of boating accidents last summer, compared to 28 a year earlier.

STILL, ILLINOIS boaters must wear PFDs and adhere to the rules of safe boating to maintain the trend toward fewer boating deaths, Closson said.

Half the injuries and much of the property damage associated with boating accidents result from collisions, according to Closson.

Last summer in Illinois, 43 of the 97 reported accidents involved collisions with other vessels and another 10 accidents resulted from collisions with fixed objects.

Invariably these accidents occurred on nice, clear days with unlimited visibility. Water conditions were calm, visibility good, and weather clear in well over half the accidents reported to DOC last summer.

Yet, the boaters involved often explained that they "just didn't see the other boat" or they "didn't see the other boat until it was too late."

THE REASON for many of these accidents is that ex-posure to sun, wind, motion, vibration, glare and the noise of operating a boat for three or four hours is very tiring, Closson said. "These stresses may reduce an operator's ability to observe and react nearly as much as being legally intoxicated. If you've also had a few drinks, your abilities will be hampered even more."

Of all accidents, fires and explosions are probably the easiest to prevent, Closson said.

The root cause is lack of care. Victims of these accidents usually fail to check their boats for stray fuel vapors after refueling or fail to maintain the fuel systems in working order.

"Don't be in a hurry," Closson advised. "Slow down and check for fuel odors before starting engines. Gasoline is a powerful explosive, and it has a very short fuse."

Boaters can reduce their chances of becoming a boating accident statistic, just by observing a few safety rules Closson said.

"Wear your PFD, keep your weight low in an open boat, smell for fuel vapors, maintain your boat in good operating condition and stay alert," he said. "Then show courtesy and consideration, and boating will be as fun for everyone as it is supposed to be."

When I think about it How lucky can you be?

by GLORIA DAVIS

Well, we lived through it folks! Not only did we get past another Friday the 13th last week, but we also had a full moon to deal with.

Like everybody else, I claim not to be superstitious. Of course, I also believe in taking no chances. I mean, it really can't hurt to toss a little salt over my shoulder, tuck my lucky coin into my wallet, be a on special lookout for black cats and steer clear of ladders.

I really can't say that I've found Friday the 13th to be worse than any other Friday, but there are a few Ides of March that I could have done without.

Maybe my friends and I fall into either the mentally unbalanced or senile categories that seem to be affected by the full moon, because I can personally attest to the "lunacy" brought about when that big round piece of cheese appears in the sky.

They claim it is the change in atmospheric pressure that causes crime and mayhem stats to soar around the time of the full moon.

Case in point: I have never been at a social occasion during that time without witnessing a family fight, a heated argument between good friends or some such "critsy" behavior.

For instance, weddings are usually happy times full of family love.

Yet I can recall two wedding receptions that took place on hot summer full moon evenings that didn't follow the usual loving pattern.

At one, the grandmother of the groom ripped the front of the father-of-the-bride's tuxedo in a fray that started because of the slowness with which the groom's family was served.

At the other, the groom and the groomsmen proceeded to get a little bombed between the ceremony and the reception, leaving the bridesmaids to drive themselves to the reception.

One of the bridesmaids was arrested for driving without a driver's license (this was back when you had to have a license in your possession if you were behind the wheel of a car).

And on top of it, the bride's home was robbed, with most of the wedding gifts being the major part of the booty.

Now you may say, "Don't blame these things on the full moon, they would have happened anyway." Yet the full moon and bad happenings are too much coincidence for me.

By the way, both of these couples have now divorced.

So, take my advice, why ask for trouble. All you have to do is start raising four-leaf clover plants and catch a cricket and put it in a cage on the hearth in front of your fireplace.

Ferraro lib victory?

by GLORIA DAVIS

Well the historical moment has finally come. A woman is candidate for the second highest office in the country, a position that can become the top spot in a matter of minutes. Ask Lyndon Johnson about that one.

Supposedly the women's libbers are celebrating this big step forward towards equal rights for women.

Not being a dedicated member of that group, I guess I tend to see the situation a little differently.

When Walter Mondale announced his choice for a runningmate, he may have set the pattern for the entire future political scene. (If the Mondale-Ferraro ticket happens to win that is!)

If we are talking equality here, Geraldine Ferraro is supposed to be a eminently qualified politician, not an eminently qualified woman. Would Mondale have kissed Gary Hart or Jesse Jackson if they had stood in her high heels on July 12?

No matter how you look at it, this bodes to be the most sexist political campaign in history and if I were a member of NOW I would be furious at the tone in which this whole political game is beginning to be played.

I'm not knocking Ferraro. She's a credit to her party and her sex, but questions galore are being bandied over the local coffee counters.

Has she the expertise to fill the office of the President of the United States? If her name were Gerald Ferraro, and her political record the same, would that name be on the other half of the Democratic ticket for 1984?

How sexist can you get? Is she the right person to be put "a heartbeat away from the Presidency" because of her qualifications as a statesperson or because of her qualifications as a woman?

Another telling note that has already been struck was the report on what Ferraro was wearing as she stood next to Mondale on this momentous occasion.

This must be another historical first. I don't remember whether or not George Bush was wearing pin stripes or his go everywhere navy at a like occasion four years ago.

But they say that variety is the spice of life so this political campaign will be an entirely new ballgame and we might as well sit back enjoy and learn from it.

Those in the political know-how claim that Mondale improved his position by this move because, in trailing in the polls, he had to do something daring to add interest to his "dullard" image.

The Ferraro move reportedly goes after the women's and the young vote. There are those that are asking what happened to the chase after the black vote?

There are those who are asking why did Mondale argue with success and ignore the votes held by Gary Hart who almost had as many as he does. You know 55 percent and 30 percent make 85 percent with just 15 percent to go to win the whole ball of wax!

It worked for Reagan and Bush the last time.

Of course you say, if a movie star can do it, why not a woman? You have a point there and this is the good old USA where any man or woman can be President.

But there are those that contend that Reagan hit that high office with much more political grit under his nails after leading a huge union for many years (If that ain't politics, I don't know what is!) and one of the biggest states in the union for three terms.

Anyway, being experienced enough to be President is like qualifying for Pope, you just can't practice at it because there is no other job like it.

Get ready, they're coming, those inevitable dumb questions (presuming a Democratic victory): "Will President Mondale, being a gentleman, allow the vice president to precede him? Will the President hold doors for the vice president?"

Or, "If Air Force One goes down, will the vice president join the other women and children in the lifeboats before the President?"

And, horror of horrors, there's already been jocular mention of her serving better coffee at state functions.

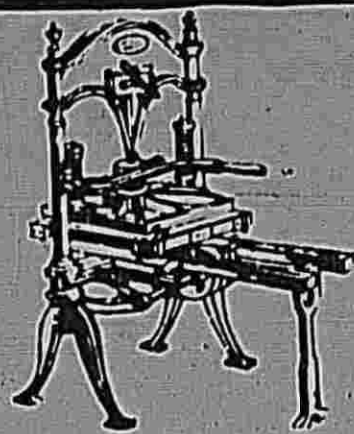

Maybe we should just chalk all this sexist nonsense up to the fact that most of the people over 35 are products of "mom means apple pie," and hopefully adjustments can be made.

This would not be the first time in history a woman has headed a country. Look at Queen Elizabeth I and Mary Queen of Scots. Of course they weren't too democratic in their way of doing things, Elizabeth was known to chop off the heads of those that disagreed with her and Mary did away with anyone who wasn't Catholic.

Margaret Thatcher and Golda Meier made their female mark and history but neither headed the most powerful country in the world during the highly volatile 1980's.

We'll just have to try and see through all this silliness, listen well, do our homework, and hope we pick the right people no matter which sex, to hold those two high offices, especially with the world situation being what it is.

The very life of our country, not to mention mine, might depend on it.

The Time Machine

FIFTY YEARS AGO: July 19, 1934

A dozen members of Antioch's younger generation had joined either the U. S. Navy or Civil Conservation Corps. M. Ehl, formerly of Alabama, purchased Ray Smith's Lake St. service station.

Mrs. Albert Barnstable, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mount, daughter Phyllis, and Marjorie Crowley visited the Chicago World's Fair.

The room above Bernie Fields' Tavern was set to host the American Legion meetings instead of the village hall.

The National Safety Council reported that the number of drinking drivers had increased 30 percent since the repeal of prohibition.

Sliced bacon was priced at 20 cents a pound at the A&P Store.

A renewal of an Antioch News subscription plus a subscription to a popular magazine was being offered for $2 a year.

Twilight golf fees were 60 cents at Our Country Club at Hwy. C and Rte. 83.

THIRTY YEARS AGO: July 22, 1954

The Antioch Village Board decided on an interim census, to cost $1,500, to be able to receive more motor fuel tax money from the state.

Raymond Heath tried unsuccessfully to save a drowning girl in New York.

The young Pyle boy pitched the Antioch Little League's first no-hit game of the season.

A hay rack, belonging to the Wolfe Bros. farm, burned as it was being pulled down Deep Lake Rd. by a tractor.

The Antioch Village Board was one of the few in Lake County to lower its proposed appropriation fund.

Harriet Runyard, Margaret Walsh, Gladys Techert and Lillian Quilty were in charge of the St. Peter's Festival.

TEN YEARS AGO: July 24, 1974

The high school art students let loose with their art work on the side of the building that edged the new park on Main St..

John Horton donated 11 of the paintings of local landmarks done by his deceased wife, Jacqueline, to the Lakes Region Historical Society.

PM&L Theater presented a variety show called "Ice Cream and Apple Pie" on the high school stage. The profits were to go into the fund for refurbishing the PM&L Theater on Main St..

Word was that for Father's Day 1974, the nation's sale of men's cologne made record.

Ron Raven's Tigers won the Antioch Minor League championship despite a last minute rally by the Cardinals. Tiger centerfielder Jon Olsen pulled in D. J. Horton's line drive for the final out.

The Giants took the national league championship after Rickey Ranney beat the tag by Yankee pitcher Danny Schware.

Harry Stern had the hot gun at the Farm Bureau trap shoot.

Along the way with ANNIE MAE

The merchandise offered at the Chamber's Art Fair this year seemed to have a little extra pizzaz!

Crowds were interested in the booth that offered paintings done in wood stains. And of course the artists from Antioch and places as far away as northern Wisconsin outdid themselves.

Loved it when mother and daughter walked away with prize money. Congrats to 13-year-old Karen Moran on her artwork and mom, Stella, on her outstanding needlework.

I hear Jennifer Belucci, a senior at St. Joseph's College in Rensselaer, Ind., has made the dean's list as usual.

Old Annie Mae just loves summers in Antioch, so much is happening! Now that my feet have recovered from tripping the light fantastic all night at the firemen's dance I've been on a diet so I can gorge myself on that wonderful barbecued chicken at the Lion's Picnic on Aug. 5.

I've also been saving my allowance for those special Maxwell St. deals on Aug. 2, 3, and 4., and maybe just a little for an item or two at the rescue squad auction at the Lions' Picnic.

Someone's sense of good timing was slightly off last Thursday when a crew started to paint the white lines on the street at the intersection of Lake and Main Sts. at 5:50 p.m., creating traffic problems at the busiest intersection in town, at the busiest time of the day.

Couldn't this have been done at some other time?

Crime Stoppers names Hauri executive director

The Board of Directors of Lake County Crime Stoppers has announced that Ronald Hauri will now serve as the executive director for the organization.

Hauri, formerly a lieutenant and 14 year veteran of the Waukegan Police Dept., served as the police coordinator for the Waukegan Crime Stoppers program for almost three years.

The Lake County Crime Stoppers program has its office at the headquarters of the Lake County Sheriff.

THE SHERIFF'S department, under Sheriff Robert H. "Mickey" Babcox, implemented the program and serves as the host agency for the program.

Detective Curt Corsi of the sheriff's police serves as the police coordinator for Lake County Crime Stoppers.

The executive director serves as the chief operating and administrative officer of the corporation.

Hauri's duties will encompass administration, fund, raising, and promotion of the program, said Esper Petersen, chairman of the board of directors.

THE PROGRAM has been in operation since May, 1984, and due to its size and complexity a full time administrator is needed.

Petersen added that the board of directors anticipates the addition of Hauri to the organization will lead to a highly successful program for the citizens of Lake County.

The track record of the crime stoppers concept throughout this county, as well as the early success of this program, indicate that Lake County Crime Stoppers will make a valuable contribution to law enforcement efforts in all of Lake County.

Petersen urges anyone with information regarding crime of fugitives in Lake County to call Crime Stopper at (312) 662-2222.

THE CALLERS do not have to reveal their identity, and when the information results in an arrest and indictment, cash rewards of up to $1,000 are paid to the callers anonymously.

Additionally, individuals, groups, and companies who wish to make tax deductible contributions to Lake County Crime Stoppers may call (312) 662-222 or mail a check to: Lake County Crime Stoppers Inc., P.O. Box 8684, Waukegan, 60085.

All contributions will be receipted to the donor.

Hauri joined the Waukegan Police Dept. in 1971.

After serving in the patrol division he was assigned as an investigator in the detective bureau, where he held a variety of investigative assignments.

AFTER promotion to the rank of sergeant he held supervisory responsibilities in the detective bureau and later in the patrol division.

In 1978, Hauri was promoted to the rank of lieutenant. He then served as a shift commander in the patrol division and later as communications division commander.

In 1981, Hauri was assigned as the police coordinator of the Waukegan Crime Stoppers program.

During his tenure, the Waukegan program became the fourth most productive program in the United States. He is credited with the development and implementation of several other successful crime stoppers programs throughout the country.

Additionally, Hauri held positions in the training division and the crime prevention bureau, prior to leaving the Waukegan Police Dept.

School Hearing Draws 18 Citizens

by JAN GEHRIG

A public hearing to obtain views of citizens on the proposed consolidation of Lotus and Grass Lake School Districts drew three opinions from Grass Lake residents and a total audience of 18 persons, four of whom were Lotus School teachers.

Attendance at the hearing, which was held in Waukegan Monday, July 9, was in sharp contrast to recent Grass Lake School Board meetings which have drawn as many as 50 parents speaking on both sides of the issue.

William Thompson, Lake County superintendent of schools, said the testimony presented at the hearing was the only official record that will be sent to the state office of education. "This is where it happens," he told the audience.

The petition for consolidation, approved by both boards, must be approved by the state superintendent, Thompson said, and then is submitted to the voters of both districts in a referendum in the Nov. 6 election.

According to the petition, the proposed educational fund tax rate of the new consolidated district would be $1.56 per $100 of assessed valuation. The current Lotus rate is $1.73, not $1.79 as was stated last week. The Grass Lake rate is $1.49.

Tentative plans call for kindergarten through third graders to attend the Lotus building, while fourth through eighth graders would attend the Grass Lake building, which is three miles away from Lotus.

Speaking in favor of consolidation was Carolyn Adams, Grass Lake teacher and vice president of the teachers' association, who cited educational advantages of combining the two small districts.

Her testimony included advantages such as better grouping of students, smaller class sizes, more children in extracurricular activities such as band, sports and art; and greater availability of the media center to children in the upper grades.

Recommending further study on the merger of Grass Lake with some other school district was Pat Sherwood, resident and past officer of the Parent Teacher Organization. "I know that we will have to merge eventually, but I don't think we should be rushed into it," she said.

Marie Brausam, the third district resident to testify, said she is not in favor of the consolidation because she believes not enough information has been presented to residents on the issue. "I want to investigate other options," Brausam said.

Testifying in favor of consolidation were Supts. Wayne Tidd of Lotus and Richard Hogan of Grass Lake.

Advantages cited by the two educators included a broader financial base, the ability to offer a better educational program to students in a larger, consolidated district, the need for fewer staff members and the ability to offer departmentalized classes for students in sixth through eighth grade.

Hogan also said there should be no transportation problems because the buildings are only three miles apart on Grass Lake Rd. With more than one class per grade, the children could be better grouped according to ability, he said.

Earl Morrison, secretary of the Grass Lake Board, said he does not like the law that requires a consolidation vote to be a combined election of the residents in both districts.

"If one district or another did not approve, it could still go through," he said.

Marilyn Filiatreault, Lotus Board president, said after the meeting that none of the Lotus residents have expressed dissatisfaction with the proposed consolidation with her board.

State's Attorney receives grant for highway safety program

The Illinois Dept. of Transportation announced approval of a highway safety grant for the Lake County State's Attorney's Office.

According to the State's Attorney Fred Foreman, the grant will enable Luis Berrones and Walter Williams to attend a four-day Vehicular Homicide/DWI Conference sponsored by the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

The conference will provide them with a better understanding of DUI problems and their effect on highway safety conditions in Lake County.

A portion of the approximately $584 cost of attending the conference will be reimbursed to the County from federal funds made available to the State of Illinois under the Highway Safety Act of 1966.

Miller talks summer traffic does and don'ts

by COLLEEN DEVRIES

"As soon as school lets out, we have a problem in the evenings. Parents think that because their kids don't have to get up to go to school, they can stay out later at night," Antioch Police Chief Chuck Miller said.

More teens staying out later at night can lead to accidents and other problems.

Millers wants to remind those walking or riding bicycles at night that they should wear light colored clothing and stay on the correct side of the street. Everyone "definitely" should have lights or reflectors on their bicycles when riding at night, Miller emphasized.

Pedestrians should walk against traffic and bikers should ride with traffic, he affirmed.

One particularly bad habit some bike riders have is weaving from side to side of the road in an attempt to avoid being on the same side of the road as an approaching car.

Miller noted that, besides being an unsafe practice, weaving can cause an obstruction of traffic, which could lead to the arrest of the offending biker.

"Streets are made for cars, and bikes are secondary traffic," Miller stated. He noted that bikers causing problems can be charged with reckless biking or with hindering the flow of traffic.

Bicyclists are allowed to ride on sidewalks in the village except in the business district. When traveling through the business district, cyclists should walk their bikes, Miller said. That area includes Main St. from Orchard St. to the Dairy Queen and on Lake St. from Main St. to the Ben Franklin, he added.

Only older riders should ride their bicycles on the street in the business district, Miller said. However, he does not encourage them to do so.

Younger cyclists just don't have the experience to watch out for cars entering and leaving parking spots and for drivers opening their car door, he noted.

Miller said shoppers accidentally hitting bikers when opening car doors and bikers possibly hitting shoppers exiting stores are the two main reasons for prohibiting bike traffic on the sidewalks.

He doesn't recall any bikers or pedestrians being hit last year, but the potential still is there, Miller said.

Another annoying habit some young pedestrians have is walking in the street and forcing cars to go around them.

The walkers think they're being tough, but all they're doing is being foolish. Miller noted that a driver could come around a curve and not see the pedestrians until too late or could be drunk or just distracted by something else.

Common sense dictates that walkers should stay on the side of the road. Again, streets are made for cars, and pedestrians holding up traffic by unsafe behavior may be arrested for hindering the flow of traffic.

Miller also would like to remind parents to warn children about the danger of talking to strangers.

"People everywhere in today's society have the wrong intent with children," the chief noted. Children should not go anywhere alone and should not approach cars of strangers, he added.

Lakes abound in the Antioch area, and Miller pointed out that he has heard that the Lake County Sheriff's boat patrol will be "beefed up" this year.

He said the two major problems in terms of safety are waterskiing and darkness.

At least three persons are needed for waterskiing: the boat driver, the spotter and the skier, Miller noted. Waterskiers must have an observer besides the driver, he emphasized.

Boats also should have the proper lighting for night use, Miller added. All boats also should have a fire extinguisher, he said.

Lake Geneva Raceway plans Enduro

The Lake Geneva Raceway has set Sunday, Aug. 5 for the biggest enduro to be held yet.

Eduro 101 will feature at least 101 regular type passenger cars racing for 301 laps or 3 hours and 1 minute on quarter mile asphalt Raceway.

The enduro will start at 1 p.m. and there will be no yellow flags and the race will only be stopped if the track is blocked and cars can not push their way through to open at least one path.

Then all cars will stop and enough dissabled cars will be removed to make it possible for cars to continue.

Eduro 101 will pay $1,001 to the winner and has already attracted several entries for this biggest crash-bash in motor sports.

Many of the cars are expected to make pit stops for fuel or tire changes, but the winner will be determined by the first car to complete 101 laps or to be the leader at the end of 3 hours and 1 minute.

The only modifications to the cars allowed will be to remove all glass except the windshield and the welding or bolting closed of doors and trunk lids.

Racing stock cars are not allowed to compete.

Entries are available by sending a stamped self addressed envelope to the Lake Geneva Raceway, Rte. 3, Box 895, Lake Geneva, Wis. 53147.

Eduro 101 follows the Raceways 3rd Annual; $6,000 challenge race for late model stock cars on Saturday night, Aug. 4.

Legion team in district tourney

Antioch's American Legion baseball team improved its record, 23-4, with wins over Libertyville, 10-6, and Gurnee, 7-1, in the 10th District Sub-District Tournaments.

It was Craig Prather who put Antioch on top for good with a homerun to right center field. Prather was also the winning pitcher with a 3-1 record.

SUCCESS OF PERIODONTAL THERAPY

Q. What factors affect the chances for success of periodontal disease treatment?
A. All of the following play a part in determining the success of periodontal therapy —
- systemic factors: diseases like diabetes and thyroid problems as well as pregnancy and malnutrition can affect treatment
- Alcoholism and heavy smoking, through their effects on over-all health, act as deterrents to success
- age: the younger the patient, surprisingly, the more severe the periodontal problem is likely to be
- bone loss: chances for recovery are greater if this is not extreme
- remaining teeth: if the number and locations of these are not enough to support tooth replacements, recovery chances will be poor
- bite: improper occlusion or bite, if not correctable, can affect periodontal conditions negatively
- grinding teeth (bruxism), if not controlled, will affect treatment negatively
- tooth root size/shape: a tooth with a long root will have more bone surrounding and supporting it. This protects the tooth and gives it a better chance to heal.

Illinois Bell publishes development directory

Illinois Bell Community Relations Manager, Dick Miller, presented the first copy of "Economic Development Organizations in Illinois" to Cranston Byrd, deputy director of Lake County Economic Development as part of the company's continuing program of economic development, which has been underway in Illinois Bell cities since 1978.

Listing more than 500 agencies which specialize in economic development, the directory includes virtually all communities in the state.

The purpose of the directory is to make available to all persons dealing in industrial and business recruiting, retention, and expansion, the expert local help available in their area or region.

"This reference document will be widely distributed throughout the state, nation and, in some instances, internationally to assure that there is immediate access to the most appropriate local agency to assist in an economic development effort," according to Bruce Campbell, Illinois Bell director of economic development.

Campbell explained that the directory does not duplicate any current documents although there have been several regional and even some statewide efforts in the past to compile such lists.

"We recognized the need for a document in the hands of banks, professional developers, city, county, and state officials and major Fortune 500 industries which could point directly to local help," Campbell explained.

He said that the need to update the material, which could include everything from a Chicago neighborhood group to newly formed multi-county regional organizations, was evident in the changing and extremely volatile competitive market of economic development today.

"It is our hope that this directory will give the cities we serve and the State of Illinois in general a competitive edge that will pay off in new industry, business, and jobs," Campbell concluded.

Copies may be obtained by calling Dick Miller at (312) 367-9977.
